Below – Jeff tells the legend of the Honeybell
(Our most asked for variety...)

In 1930 an inspired man with vision stepped into a grove. That grove became a stage where something just short of a miracle was to occur. He carefully rubbed pollen from the flower of a Duncan tree into a Dancy Tangerine tree's blossom. To his amazement a tiny fruitlet formed that grew into a glorious, bell-shaped citrus unlike anything he'd ever seen before. A ROYAL, NEW TREE unlike any other in the history of citrus had been born, and oranges as we knew them would never quite be the same.

Matt (top right), graduated in 2019 with a degree in citrus. He and his firefighter brother, Brad (far right) learned to clip Honeybells at 6 years old!

Word of a unique, new hybrid spread quickly among other growers everywhere. They couldn't believe how incredibly juicy and sweet these new "Honeybells" were and to this day, they still comment on how extraordinarily difficult they are to grow.

As always, I personally guarantee Honeybells to be succulent and incredibly juicier than any orange variety you've ever tasted.

Al's Honeybells

Get ready—
The season's about to begin!

Our Most Asked for Variety!

Unique, very rare with a taste that's "out of this world," best describes our fabulous Honeybells. They're so rare, in fact, that less than one person in 5,000 has ever been lucky enough to taste this delicious fruit.

What exactly is a Honeybell? They're a specially developed hybrid orange that's actually a cross between a Dancy Mandarin and a Duncan Grapefruit. Honeybells (aka Minneola Tangelos) were originally released by the USDA to us Florida growers back in 1931. Word got out and over time, citrus growers from across the Sunbelt began planting our Florida Honeybell trees in their groves too. It's distinctive balance of citric acid and fructose is truly special and guaranteed to be juicier, and more succulent than any variety you've ever tasted.

What makes an Al's Honeybell so special and rare? As a grower, packer and shipper with decades of experience, Al's knows the difference between good Honeybells and ordinary ones. As a Honeybell grower, we know where the best Honeybells grow and we're patient, never clipping them until they're fully tree-ripened and amazing! FYI- We don't pick your Honeybells, instead they are meticulously clipped by hand to protect the delicate bells from harm.

"I shared a Honeybell with my friend the other day. Today she called me, her voice subdued, almost reverent to ask: What in the world was that heavenly thing?..."

B. Bruce, Washington, DC

"I just ate my first Royal Honeybell. What an incredible experience!!! So juicy and sweet. You now have a loyal customer!"

N. Artley, Fayetteville, NC

When the wait is finally over and your Honeybells arrive, get ready for a treat...Tear open the box and quickly chill some if you've got the patience (if not, we totally understand. Next take out the trusty bib we packed in your box, better have a towel ready, too... yes, they're that juicy!) Honeybells are a snap to peel and eat, so take a really big bite and say Ahhh..., the pleasure is indescribable!

Reserve your box now!

First orders in are the first orders out.

(Customers have been reserving Al's Honeybells since mid-September.)

Note: You can always trust Al's to wait until fruit is fully ripened and tastes great before we clip, pack and ship it. We typically start harvesting Florida from mid-January thru February, finishing in the western Sunbelt by late March.

Ripening schedules vary year to year so please be patient!

Honeybell Lover's Early & Late Option—

Honeybells are addictive so one box is never enough. Honeybell season ends without warning, so folks who really love honeybells choose the "Earliest & Latest" option (see order form). That way they're assured of a first shipment (Jan-Feb) plus a "Late" shipment at the end of the season.

Savor the flavor twice as long!

The Royal Honeybell™ Treatment

The attractive packaging will include a “Honeybell Survival Kit” complete with Royal Bib (yes, they’re that juicy) and a light-hearted instruction sheet. Honeybells are a totally unique experience you won’t forget.

GLORY ORRI Mandarins

"Back by popular demand"

Our newest, locally grown hybrid, these awesome Florida mandarin oranges are back! So well received by loyal citrus lovers last year. Those who tasted Glory Orris for the first time were rewarded with an amazingly unique, super-sweet, virtually seedless orange. So delicious and easy to peel that we named them "GLORY ORRIS" after our beloved, Glory Grove. (That's Matt Schorner's favorite grove). You just might re-nickname them "Sugarines"... yes they're just that sweet. One bite and you'll be hooked. Don't delay- their season's short but sweet!

Also available mixed with Red Grapefruit.

Supplies limited, so please order Glory Orris early. Available late Nov. - early January.
